

Chamber Hosts Latin American and Caribbean Heads of State

The Chamber's Association of American Chambers of Commerce in Latin America (AACCLA) hosted seven heads of state this month during the three-part 2020 Forecast on Latin America and the Caribbean (FOLAC) Conference.

ICYMI: The conference kicked off on October 8 with a session featuring President of Argentina Alberto Fernandez and continued on October 15 with remarks by President of Colombia Ivan Duque; President of Guyana Irfaan Ali; and Prime Minister of Trinidad and Tobago Keith Rowley.

Earlier today, we wrapped up the series with an event headlined by President of the Republic of Costa Rica H.E. Carlos Alvarado; President of the Dominican Republic Luis Abinader; and Prime Minister of Jamaica Andrew Holness. The high-level series of discussions also featured U.S. Chamber CEO Thomas J. Donohue, President Suzanne Clark, and Head of International Affairs Myron Brilliant.
