

The Logistical Challenges of Vaccine Distribution

Once COVID-19 vaccines are developed the challenge will be distributing them. Today, the U.S. Chamber hosted the next installment of the NOW+NEXT series exploring this topic with experts from Pfizer, Johnson & Johnson, SICPA, and DHL.

Why it matters: Demand will far outweigh supply in the early days of vaccine distribution. It will be important that every vaccine provider works together to get the world back on its feet.

What are some concerns?

- The primary concern is safety. Public and private sector collaboration will be very important to ensure the vaccine is distributed to those who need it most and are in the most affected areas.
- Additionally, a globally standardized way of verifying vaccine and COVID-19 test credentials will be needed.

The big picture: Panelists emphasized the important role immunization will play in restarting the economy and making sure that the global community is prepared for the next pandemic.
