

Sports Superstars Raise $20 Million for COVID-19 Relief

In the most watched golf telecast in cable television history, sports legends Phil Mickelson and Tom Brady squared off against Tiger Woods and Peyton Manning in The Match: Champions for Charity. The match raised $20 million for non-profits working to provide COVID-19 relief, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Foundation's Save Small Business Fund.

Thanks to this event, the Foundation will be able to provide additional grants to small businesses who had already applied for assistance.

Visit savesmallbusiness.com to learn more about this program.

--

ICYMI: The Chamber's Vice President for Small Business Policy Tom Sullivan appeared on CNN on Saturday to talk about the small business environment.

"Over the past eight weeks we have fielded calls from small businesses all over America who are desperate for cash," Sullivan said. "Right now, we have 50 states that are in some process of reopening, and that's key to turning that around, so customers can come in, shop safely, and build those revenues back up at small businesses."

Click here for the Chamber's set of online digital resources to help small businesses reopen.