

In the Nation ...

If 2020 hasn't been sufficiently challenging, a series of disasters over the past month—a devastating derecho windstorm in Iowa, destructive Hurricane Laura along the Gulf Coast, and wildfires still raging in California—have heaped further pain on families, businesses, and communities.

We're here to help: The Chamber Foundation's Corporate Citizenship Center has a Disaster Response and Community Resilience Program that coordinates the private sector's response to natural disasters.

The program includes guides for businesses to prepare for and recover from disasters, a corporate aid tracker, and a Disaster Help Desk that assists small businesses with readiness, relief, long-term recovery, and more.

How you can support impacted businesses: Learn how you can help local communities and small businesses impacted by recent disasters here, and consider getting involved in supporting employee assistance funds for unexpected hardships here.

Learn more:

Senior Vice President of the U.S. Chamber Foundation's Corporate Citizenship Center Marc DeCoursey—MDecourcey@USChamber.com or 202-463-5617