

Argentina's President Speaks at AACCLA Forum

On October 8, the U.S. Chamber's Association of American Chambers of Commerce in Latin America and the Caribbean (AACCLA) hosted the first of three virtual forums as part of its 2020 Forecast on Latin America and the Caribbean (FOLAC) Conference.

What happened: Argentina's President Alberto Fernandez spoke of his country's economic priorities, including overcoming indebtedness and prioritizing access to healthcare and emergency aid for those in need. President Fernandez shared his emphasis on solidarity and social cohesion to promote environmental protection and prosperity for businesses and consumers. He underlined that cooperation between both foreign and domestic partners through investment and trade will be crucial to achieve these goals.

Looking ahead: Chamber members are invited to participate in the conference's next session on October 15, which will include H.E. Ivan Duque, President of Colombia; Hon. Irfaan Ali, President of Guyana; and Hon. Keith Rowley, Prime Minister of Trinidad and Tobago, as well as U.S. Chamber President Suzanne Clark, among other distinguished speakers. For further information, please contact Vice President of the Americas Anne McKinney (amckinney@uschamber.com).

Watch Here