

Rally For Recovery: HCA Healthcare

HCA Healthcare, a leading healthcare provider comprised of 185 hospitals and 2,000 sites of care, 275,000 colleagues and 47,000 active and affiliated physicians, is proud to Rally for Recovery to help end the pandemic.

In 2020, HCA Healthcare treated more than 122,000 COVID-19 inpatients, more than any other health system in the United States. The organization distributed nearly 1.2 billion pieces of PPE to protect staff in 2020 and, while many health systems in the U.S. were forced to lay off or furlough employees, HCA Healthcare's Pandemic Pay Program ensured over 127,000 colleagues were able to continue to support themselves and their families. COVID-19 positive patients do not have to pay for treatment in HCA Healthcare hospitals, and the organization created a free, dedicated hotline for patients who have lost insurance coverage due to the pandemic, which assisted 7,200 patients in 2020.

While many of HCA Healthcare's frontline workers were amongst the first to be vaccinated, the organization is encouraging all employees and members of the community to receive the vaccine. Even as vaccines become more widely available, the health system is careful to remind everyone to #MaskUp and follow appropriate safety protocols to help reduce the number of hospitalizations related to COVID-19.

Go deeper into HCA Healthcare's response to the pandemic.

And join employers across the country who are committing to Rally For Recovery.