

Watch: This Fashion CEO Is Making Her Mark on the World Through Business

For Women’s History Month, we are highlighting Lauren Chan, founder and CEO of Hennig, a New York-based luxury fashion brand with the mission of changing how society sees plus-size women.

Big picture: “Henning is unique, because we’re a designer-level, luxury brand for sizes 12 and up,” said Chan. “The end goal is to get them into garments that they feel good in, and they can feel good about buying.”

Making change: “The way I want to make my mark on the world... is best done through business,” she added.

Learn More