

Back to Business: Introducing Rep. Mariannette Miller-Meeks

A new Congress brings new faces to Washington, D.C. The Chamber launched the Back to Business series to introduce new Members of Congress to the business community and begin conversations about how we can work together to get our country back to health and our economy working for everyone.

In our latest event, the Chamber's Senior Vice President of Government Affairs Jack Howard joined Della Schmidt, President and CEO of the Greater Burlington Partnership, in a conversation with Rep. Mariannette Miller-Meeks (R-IA).

Key takeaways from Rep. Miller-Meeks:

- Top priorities: "If we are able to get an infrastructure package through that is multi-year, bipartisan, allows us to create jobs, and allows us to continue to have an economy that grows and flourishes, I would consider that successful."
- Leading with an open mind: "Our job is to serve... You don't have to be the flashiest, you don't have to get the most media attention, but you can serve a lot of people just by being willing to meet with them, listen to them, and keeping an open mind."
