

ALEJANDRO DREVON

General Manager, Abbvie Puerto Rico

Alejandro Drevon started his career in the Pharmaceutical Industry more than 20 years ago, when he joined Wyeth and held sales and marketing roles for the company. Alejandro joined Abbott/Abbvie in 2002 as Senior Cardiovascular Product Manager in Puerto Rico. He has since held roles of increasing responsibility, including Product Manager, Immunology, in Chicago; Senior Business Unit Manager, Immunology, Puerto Rico; Business Unit Manager, Market Access & Patient Operations, Puerto Rico; Business Unit Director, Immunology, Argentina; Commercial Director, Immunology, LATAM Region; and Immunology Director for Global Marketing in Chicago. Alejandro returned to Puerto Rico as Bristol Myers Squibb's General Manager for Puerto Rico and the Caribbean. His most recent role is General Manager for Abbvie Puerto Rico.

Alejandro earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Accounting from the University of Puerto Rico and a Master of Business Administration degree in Marketing from the Inter-American University, Puerto Rico.

Alejandro is also a leader active in the Pharmaceutical Industry and currently serves as the Lead for the Health Outcomes & Sustainability Committee for the Pharmaceutical Industry Association of Puerto Rico.